

WCM Core Growth Portfolio

(as of February 6, 2019)

A global multi-asset total return portfolio emphasizing growth of capital through global equity and fixed income investments

The primary investment objective of this strategy is to grow client capital by investing in global equities and a modest allocation to global government and corporate bonds.

The long term strategic asset allocation for this strategy is 80% global equities, 15% global fixed income and 5% cash.

WCM Core Portfolios incorporate the advantages of active management with the efficient cost structure of exchange traded funds.

The portfolio is tactically allocated on an ongoing basis. Tactical asset allocation is a global macro-driven, top down investment process which orients portfolios in a manner that seeks to take advantage of the best investment opportunities across asset classes while maintaining suitable levels of risk.

Our mandate is to deliver total return and growth of investment capital by providing dynamic exposure to the segments of the capital markets that offer strong fundamentals, favorable valuations and suitable risk characteristics.

About Wilde Capital Management

Wilde Capital Management was founded with one purpose – to offer comprehensive, easy-to-access and simple-to-understand investment management services to individuals, families and institutions of all sizes. The firm consists of a group of respected professionals with a proven track record of success at some of the world's largest wealth and asset managers.

At WCM, the driving objective for our clients is preserving wealth while taking thoughtful and appropriate risks over time to enhance that wealth. Our investment philosophy and approach are based on two key tenets – patient investing and a transparent, disciplined and repeatable process.

Portfolio Highlights

- Globally focused – A globally asset allocated portfolio targeting total return through global equity and bond markets.
- Emphasis on market fundamentals and valuation – The foundation of the portfolios is a set of ETFs which provide exposure to the areas of the global capital markets that we expect to demonstrate favorable fundamentals in terms of earnings growth or attractive valuations. We also favor markets where economic trends are supportive of upward movement in securities prices.
- Tactical overlay – These portfolios incorporate WCM's tactical asset allocation views, positioning towards the most attractive market opportunities and away from areas of the capital markets that are fully priced, expensive or exhibit poor fundamentals.

Potential Risks

- Market risk – Adverse developments in capital markets may cause the value of your portfolio to decrease.
- Interest rate risk – The fixed income portion of these portfolios may be negatively impacted by fluctuations in interest rates.

DISCLOSURES

Wilde Capital Management, LLC is a registered investment adviser. Information presented is for educational purposes only and does not intend to make an offer or solicitation for the sale or purchase of any specific securities, investments, or investment strategies. Investments involve risk and, unless otherwise stated, are not guaranteed. Be sure to first consult with a qualified financial adviser and/or tax professional before implementing any strategy discussed herein. Past performance is not indicative of future performance.

It is important to remember that there are risks inherent in any investment and that there is no assurance that any money manager, fund, asset class, style, index or strategy will provide positive performance over time.

Diversification and strategic asset allocation do not guarantee a profit nor protect against a loss in declining markets. All investments are subject to risk, including the loss of principal.

The information contained herein is based upon the data available as of the date of this document and is subject to change at any time without notice.

Portfolios that invest in fixed income securities are subject to several general risks, including interest rate risk, credit risk, the risk of issuer default, liquidity risk and market risk. These risks can affect a security's price and yield to varying degrees, depending upon the nature of the instrument, and may occur from fluctuations in interest rates, a change to an issuer's individual situation or industry, or events in the financial markets. In general, a bond's yield is inversely related to its price. Bonds can lose their value as interest rates rise and an investor can lose principal. If sold prior to maturity, fixed income securities are subject to gains/losses based on the level of interest rates, market conditions and the credit quality of the issuer.

Foreign investments are subject to risks not ordinarily associated with domestic investments, such as currency, economic and political risks, and may follow different accounting standards than domestic investments. Investments in emerging or developing markets involve exposure to economic structures that are generally less diverse and mature, and to political systems that can be expected to have less stability than those of more developed countries. These securities may be less liquid and more volatile than investments in U.S. and longer-established non-U.S. markets.

An investment in small/mid-capitalization companies involves greater risk and price volatility than an investment in securities of larger capitalization, more established companies. Such securities may have limited marketability and the firms may have more limited product lines, markets and financial resources than larger, more established companies.

Portfolios that invest in real estate investment trusts (REITs) are subject to many of the risks associated with direct real estate ownership and, as such, may be adversely affected by declines in real estate values and general and local economic conditions.

Portfolios that invest a significant portion of assets in one sector, issuer, geographical area or industry, or in related industries, may involve greater risks, including greater potential for volatility, than more diversified portfolios.

A complete list of month-end holdings for the portfolio since inception is available upon request.

Important Disclosures: Exchange-Traded Funds

Exchange-traded funds (ETFs) are investment vehicles that are legally classified as open-end investment companies or unit investment trusts (UITs), but differ from traditional open-end investment companies or UITs. ETF shares are bought and sold at market price (not net asset value) and are not individually redeemed from the fund. This can result in the fund trading at a premium or discount to its net asset value, which will affect an investor's value. Shares of certain ETFs have no or limited voting rights. ETFs are subject to risks similar to those of stocks.

ETFs included in portfolios may charge additional fees and expenses in addition to the advisory fee charged for the Selected Portfolio. These additional fees and expenses are disclosed in the respective fund/note prospectus. For complete details, please refer to the prospectus.

For additional information regarding advisory fees, please refer to the Fee Summary and/or Fee Detail pages (if included with this report) and the program sponsor's/each co-sponsor's Form ADV Part 2, Wrap Fee Brochure or other disclosure documents, which may be obtained through your advisor.

Certain ETFs have elected to be treated as partnerships for federal, state and local income tax purposes. Accordingly, investors in such ETFs will be taxed as a beneficial owner of an interest in a partnership. Tax information for such ETFs will be reported to investors on an IRS schedule K-1. Investors should consult with their tax advisors in determining the tax consequences of any investment, including the application of state, local or other tax laws and the possible effects of changes in federal or other tax laws.
